1. HOD – Dept. of Roga Nidana & Vikruti Vigyana, Jupiter Ayurvedic College, Nagpur, India

Abstract: Ayurveda and Jyotish science are complimentary to each other and have incorporated concepts of each other. The review of Jyotish literature had showed that malefic planets causes specific diseases based upon their position in particular horoscope. It is observed that the planets also represent the particular dhatus mentioned in Ayurveda (Surya = Asthi, Chandra = Rakta, Mangal = Majja, Budha = Rasa, Guru = Meda, Shukra = Shukra, Shani = Mamsa). The review of Ayurvedic literature showed that there are seven dhatus viz. Rasa (Plasma), Rakta (Blood), Mamsa (Muscles), Meda (Fat), Asthi (Bones), Majja (Bone marrow and nervous tissue) and Shukra (Semen with sperms) which forms the various tissue of the body and supports the body. In Ayurveda they are also called as ‘Dooshyas’ as they get vitiated by doshas. Ayurveda had described the Dhatu dushtijanya diseases. Attempt has been made to study the interrelation between Graha induced diseases and Dhatu dushtijanya diseases. It is concluded that there exists a definite interrelationship between malefic Graha induced diseases mentioned in Jyotish science and Dhatu dushtijanya diseases mentioned in Ayurvedic science.

Keywords: Malefic Graha induced diseases, Dhatu dushtijanya diseases

INTRODUCTION:

The review of Jyotish literature had showed that malefic planets causes specific diseases based on their position in particular horoscope. It is observed that the planets also represent the particular dhatus mentioned in Ayurveda (Surya = Asthi, Chandra = Rakta, Mangal = Majja, Budha = Rasa, Guru = Meda, Shukra = Shukra, Shani = Mamsa). The review of Ayurvedic literature showed that there are seven dhatus viz. Rasa (Plasma), Rakta (Blood), Mamsa (Muscles), Meda (Fat), Asthi (Bones), Majja (Bone marrow and nervous tissue) and Shukra (Semen with sperms) which forms the various tissue of the body and supports the body. In Ayurveda they are also called as 'Dooshyas' as they get vitiated by doshas. Ayurveda had described the Dhatu dushtijanya diseases. Attempt has been made to study the interrelationship between Graha induced diseases and Dhatu dushtijanya diseases.

The diseases caused by vitiation of dhatus gets alleviated by worshipping that particular dhatu related planet with Japa (enchanted the Graha Mantra), Tarpana (offering the water and food to the Graha), Homa (Paying oblations to the Graha), Dana (Paying donations to the Graha).

In Ayurveda, diseases caused by vitiation of dhatus are treated with various drugs. In case of failure to drug therapy then above said Jyotishokta measures are adopted as a part of 'Daiva Vyapashraya' treatment.^[28]

DISCUSSION:

As per Ayurveda, Rasa-dhatu though flows in blood vessels, mainly is Twakgata i.e. mainly reflects in skin. Hence, Rasadhatu dushti is readily evident on skin. Anemia is one such condition where paleness is reflected on skin. Pandu (anemia) has been mentioned as the Rasa dhatu dushtijanya vikara in Ayurveda. Rasa dhatu as per Jyotish science is represented by Budha (mercury) planet and malefic effect of Budha also give rise to Pandu (anemia). As per Jyotish science, Kushtha (skin diseases) and Vicharchika (eczema) also manifest due to malefic effect of Budha which is quite obvious from the fact that Rasadhatu dushti mainly reflects in skin. Similarly, Jwara (fever) is also mentioned as one of the manifestation of Rasadhatu dushti by Ayurveda. In Jyotish science, also Jwara (fever) is mentioned as the malefic effect of Budha.

Hence, there is similarity in the opinion of both the sciences. Ayurveda had mentioned many other gastrointestinal features of Rasadusti as being the first ever dhatu to be formed by Agni during metabolism. Jyotish science had summarized these features by calling it as Pitta Kapha janya vikaras which covers almost all of them. Pitta represents the Agni and Rasa dhatu is mainly Kaphaj in nature. Thus, interrelation between the Budha Graha and Rasa dhatu is proved.

As per Ayurveda, Rakta-dhatu though flows in blood vessels and is formed in liver and spleen. In Jyotish science, Rakta dhatu is represented by Chandra (moon). One of the manifestation of Rakta dhatu dushti is Kamala (hemolytic jaundice). As per Jyotish science, also one of the malefic effect of Chandra is Kamala (hemolytic jaundice). Kushtha (skin diseases) and Pitaka (boil) are the common manifestation of Raka dushti and malefic effect of moon mentioned by Ayurveda and Jyotish science respectively. Ayurveda had mentioned several other Rakta dushtijanya vikaras (diseases) which have been summarized by Jyotish science as Raktajanya Vikaras (blood disorders). Thus, interrelation between the Chandra Graha and Rakta dhatu is proved.

In Jyotish science, Shani (Saturn) represents the snayu. Although, Snayu is correlated to Mans Snayu but there is other class of Ayurvedic peoples, especially Bengal tradition, who correlate snayu with nerves. Hence, there is discrepancy in features related to this particular graha and the dhatu it represent. In Ayurveda, mainly Mans Dhatu Pradhan vikruti like Arbuda (tumour), Granthi (Cyst) etc are mentioned whereas in Jyotish science, the neurological abnormalities are attributed to malefic Shani. Also from Jyotishiya point of view, Shani is Vata Pradhan and gaseous in nature. As per Ayurveda, Vata causes nerve disorders like paralysis etc. In this context, there is relation between Shani and Vatapradhan majja snayu or Mamsa snayu vikruti.

As per Ayurveda the Ashraysthana of Vata is Asthi. Hence, vitiated Vata also causes diseases of bones and joints. As per Jyotish book, Gadavali, malefic Shani also leads to Sandhigat Vikaras (joint disorders). In Jyotish science, Meda dhatu is represented by Guru (Jupiter). One of the manifestation of Meda dhatu dushti is Prameha (Diabetes). As per Jyotish science, also one of the malefic effect of Guru is Prameha (Diabetes). Arbuda/Gulma (Tumour) is the other common manifestation of Meda dushti and malefic effect of Guru mentioned by Ayurveda and Jyotish science respectively. In Jyotish science, malefic Guru is the karaka (leads to) of sthulata (obesity) which is also endorsed by the Ayurveda by calling it a medojanya Vikara. Ayurveda had mentioned several other Meda dushtijanya vikaras (Dislipidemic diseases) which have been summarized by Jyotish science as Kaphajanya Vikaras (Hyperlipidemic states). Thus, interrelation between the Guru Graha and Meda dhatu is proved.

In Jyotish science, Asthi dhatu is represented by Surya (Sun). One of the manifestation of Asthi dhatu dushti is Adhi Asthi and Asthi Bheda (Bone deformity and bone pain). As per Jyotish science, one of the malefic effect of Surya is Asthi Vikaras (Bone disorders) which encompasses wide range of bone disorders. Ayurveda had mentioned several other Asthi dushtijanya vikaras (bone diseases) which have been summarized by Jyotish science as Asthi Vikaras (Bone disorders). Thus, interrelation between the Surya Graha and Asthi dhatu is proved. In Jyotish science, Majja dhatu is represented by Mangal (Mars). One of the manifestation of Majja dhatu dushti is Murchha and Bhrama (Fainting and vertigo). As per Jyotish science, also one of the malefic effect of Mangal is Apasmara (Convulsion and fall). As per Ayurveda, Bhrama and Murchha are Pittaj diseases. One of the manifestation of malefic Mangal is severe Trishna (thirst) which is again feature of aggravated Pitta as per Ayurveda. As per Jyotish science, malefic Mangal causes Pittajanya vikaras. Thus, interrelation between the Mangal Graha and Majja dhatu is proved.

In Jyotish science, Shukra dhatu is represented by Shukra (Venus). One of the manifestation of Shukra dhatu dushti is Pandu (anemia). As per Jyotish science, also one of the malefic effect of Shukra is Pandu (anemia). Whereas Ayurveda mentions Klaibya (impotence) as manifestation of Shukra dhatu dushti, Jyotish science had mentioned Guhya rogas (Genital disorders) as the effect of malefic Shukra. Guhya rogas is broad term used to include all types of Genital disorders. Shrama (Fatigue) is the common symptom mentioned by Ayurveda and Jyotish science of Shukra dushti and malefic Shukra respectively. Ejaculatory failure or premature ejaculation are the features mentioned by Ayurveda and Jyotish science of Shukra dushti and malefic Shukra respectively. Mutrakrichhra (dysuria) is a obvious feature of malefic shukra mentioned by Jyotish science. As per Jyotish book Gadavali, the malefic Shukra also leads to the Ganikottha Vikaras (sexually transmitted diseases). Thus, interrelation between the Shukra Graha and Shukra dhatu is proved. Thus, interrelation between the Shukra Graha and Shukra dhatu is proved.

CONCLUSIONS

1. There exists a relationship between malefic Budha (Mercury) induced diseases and Rasa Dhatu (Plasma) dushti induced diseases.
2. There exists a relationship between malefic Chandra (Moon) induced diseases and Rakta Dhatu (Blood) dushti induced diseases.
3. There exists a relationship between malefic Shani (Saturn) induced diseases and Mamsa Dhatu (Muscle) dushti induced diseases.
4. There exists a relationship between malefic Guru (Jupiter) induced diseases and Meda Dhatu (Fat) dushti induced diseases.

5. There exists a relationship between malefic Surya (Sun) induced diseases and Asthi Dhātu (Bone) dushti induced diseases.

6. There exists a relationship between malefic Mangal (Mars) induced diseases and Majja Dhātu (Bone marrow) dushti induced diseases.

7. There exists a relationship between malefic Shukra (Venus) induced diseases and Shukra Dhātu (Semen) dushti induced diseases.
